And the Alarm Clock Ticked Merrily On in a Bucket Full of Water.

The property of Water and Twent-third Street, and she was so sure it was a bomb she had tossed it to the street and telephoned the station.

Eagan opened it up and found inside a nice new alarm clock—still running—a silver mesh purse and the card of the sender, an intimate friend of Mrs. Aarons, wishing her a merry Christmas. The Lieutenant on duty sent the presents back to her.

MATERS

"Quality First"

In selecting a piano the first great consideration is the tone quality.

The Waters Pianos have a full, rich, deep tone, with fine singing quality—and the piano that has the best tone is the best piano to buy.

Of equal importance is the price, and the Waters prices and terms are so very reasonable that you can secure a Waters high-grade art piano for about the price at which common commercial pianos are player-planos combine the Waters Piano with the wonderful Autola Player, which is strictly up-todate and contains all the very latest and most valuable improvements. No better player-piano is made than the Waters-Autola.

Examine the Waters tone and quality and compare the Waters prices and terms, and you will be convinced that the Waters Piano or the Waters-Autola player-piano is the best value and the most attractive piano proposition possible.

BORNE HYSTERICAL

What's He Trying to Do to Me?" Actress Sohs as She Gives Way.

In an hysterical paroxysm, puncuated with cries "What's he trying to do with me?" Edith St. Clair, the actress on trial for perjury frowing out of an alleged agreement beween her and Abraham Erlanger, the theatrical manager, was half carried from the Supreme Court room this afternoon while her physician was reporting to Justice Davis on her physical condition.

She had been unable to attend the morning session of the trial, and her collapse was not unexpected.

The Court had directed in the morning that a physician report upon her state of health in order that it might be determined whether the case should be adjourned until she was in condition to appear in court.

Shortly before 1 o'clock Miss St Clair came to the Criminal Courts Building herself, accompanied by her physician, Dr. Louis Lichtschein of No. 1246 Madison Avenue, and a friend, Mrs. Wolf. She was taken to the attendants' room and there awaited the opening of court. It was seen then that she was in great distress of mind and body.

When the case was called she came into the courtroom suported by Mrs. Wolf, who had to lead her to her sent at the counsel table. The jury was temporarily excused and Dr. Lichtschein was called to the witness stand and there in a voice intended to reach only Justice Davis and Assistant District Attorney Manly and Miss St. Clair's counsel, Mr. Slade and Mr. Fraskenthaler, the physician reported the result of his examination.

It was while the testimony was being given that Miss St. Clair, who had sat with her head resting wearily upon her hand her eyes closed, suddenly flung herself against Mrs. Wolf's shoulder and burst into loud weeping.

"Yes he is!" she cried, apparently in response to something Mrs. Wolf may have said. This sentence she repeated several times, her cries rising louder and louder. All attempts to soothe her failed.

Mr. Slade and two of the court officers went to Miss St. Clair's side as she atruggled to rise. One of the attendants caught her as she started to fall, and thus she was half carried from the room, her cries of "What's he trying to do with me?" ringing out even after the hig door had closed upon her.

Justice Davis later ruled that the case would be tentatively adjourned until 1939 o'clock to morrow morn-ing. Miss St. Clair was taken home by her physician.

When Miss St. Clair fafled to appear at the morning session, Justice Davis declared forfeited her bond of $7,500, furnished by the United States Pidelity and Guarantee Company, with privilege of renewal upon her

QUESTIONS SENATE ACTION.

Wilson Thinks Senate May Have to Reconsider "Safety at Sea" Vote.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.-President Wilson, it was understood at the White House to-day, believes the Senate should reconsider its action in including a clause in its ratification of the "safety a clause in its ratification of the "safety at sea" convention which, advocates of the convention believe, practically nullifies it. It is expected that the question will be brought up in the Senate this week.

Advocates of the convention do not believe the other nations which signed it will agree to the Senate's reservation that the United States shall have the right to make further safety regulations and impose them on foreign ships coming into American territorial waters.
